ATLANTA GREEN SPACE PLAN

WRT was the lead consultant for Project Greenspace, an ambitious, citywide planning initiative that defines an integrated future system of parks, open spaces, greenways, and natural resources that collectively comprise Atlanta's urban "green infrastructure."

Extensive citizen input and analysis of information related to greenspace resources, socio-economic conditions and trends, and citizens' needs for parks, open space, and recreation were used in developing the plan.

Project Greenspace establishes a long-term vision and framework to guide and coordinate the actions of the many agencies, organizations, institutions, businesses, citizens, and others who are involved in protecting, managing, restoring, and promoting the city's parks, open spaces, and natural resources and in providing recreational opportunities for city residents.

The plan identifies guiding principles, goals and targets to guide greenspace system planning over time, and a 12-point program for action to implement the system. The action program is structured around three broad objectives: "growing" the greenspace system to serve Atlanta's existing and future population; managing parks and greenspaces to the highest standards of quality; and building capacity for implementation through partnerships.
